ISBN: 9780316702782; 2009 Paperback ISBN: 9780316047494) Murphy and Kate, the story of a girl, her dog, and their 14 years together is a good one for 7-12-year-olds. Remembering Barney as brave, smart, funny, and more is a comfort, but the boy can't think of the tenth thing until he realizes that "Barney's in the ground and he's helping to grow flowers." (Atheneum, 1971. Murphy joined her family when Kate was a baby and immediately became her lifelong playmate. (Bantam, 1983. Look for this book at your public library, ISBN: 9781595720993) Like the first book on this list, Dog Heaven, Cat Heaven was written and illustrated by Cynthia Rylant, ISBN: 9780553344028) Toby, a children's picture book for 6-12-year-olds by Margaret Wild, provides a realistic look at the different ways siblings may react to the impending death of a beloved pet. "He's probably one of the most-approached professors on campus," says Wu, 37. His classmates write a letter of sympathy to Jim. By the end of the day, his friends' sympathy has Jim feeling better. The author is Miriam Cohen and the illustrator is Ronald Himler. ISBN: 9780590100540) When our dog died, I bought this children's picture book, which was written and illustrated by Cynthia Rylant, for my husband and it helped to ease his grief. As the two grow older, Kate has less time for Murphy, but her love for the dog remains strong. When his dog dies after being hit by a truck, Jim is distraught. Having been through the experience several times, the book really moved me. In the spring, the family plants a cherry tree near Lulu's grave. The boys remain angry at Sara until something happens to convince them Sara still loves Toby. A boy grieves about the death of his cat, Barney. ISBN: 9781416961574) Jim's Dog Muffins deals with a boy's grief and his friends' responses. With text and full-page acrylic paintings, Rylant shows a heaven filled with dogs' favorite things. These ten children's picture books about the death of a pet will provide comfort to children ages 3-12 and their families when a dog, cat or other pet dies. Her younger brothers, furious at her response, lavish attention on Toby. (Scholastic, 1995. Rylant's full-page acrylic paintings provide a joyous and childlike view of cat heaven. Now, at 14, Sara's age, Toby is nearing death. (Little, Brown and Company, 2004. ISBN: 9780590100540) You know that your professors are wise in the ways of business. Scholastic Dog Heaven, an affectionate and joyous look at what heaven must be like for dogs, can be a great comfort for both children and adults who believe in a heaven as a place where dogs go. Oil paintings by Mark Graham enhance the text by Ellen Howard. All winter she misses Lulu and grieves for her dog. However, heaven for cats is quite different from heaven for dogs. ISBN: 9780395670248) Saying Goodbye to Lulu is a good book about the grieving process. Harris is beautifully illustrated with muted watercolor and black pencil artwork by Jan Ormerod. (Aladdin, 2004. (Aladdin, Simon & Schuster, 2007. With sensitivity and love, his parents help him prepare to bury Mouse. Sharing a children's picture book about the death of a pet can provide an opportunity for children to express their feelings when a beloved pet dies. Sara's response is anger and rejection of Toby. The text and beautifully rendered illustrations by Robert Inppen include animals, flowers, plants, and people. It may be a book about dog heaven, a book about what happens when a cat dies, a special day for a dying dog or a burial for a beloved pet mouse. ISBN: 9780689871344) The Tenth Good Thing About Barney by Judith Viorst, with illustrations by Erik Blegvad, is a classic. Grief-stricken at Murphy's death, Kate is comforted by her memories and knows that she will never forget Murphy. When a little girl's dog slows down because of old age, she is very sad and says, "I don't want another dog. With denial, then a mixture of anger and sadness, a little boy reacts to the death of his pet. He finds comfort in painting the box Mouseie is to be buried in and filling it with things the mouse would enjoy. When he returns to school, Jim doesn't want to participate in any of the activities. (Kids Can Press, 2002. ISBN: 9781550749571) Lifetimes: The Beautiful Way to Explain Death to Children by Bryan Mellonie is an excellent book to use to introduce death as part of the cycle of life in nature. The authors and illustrators of these children's picture books pay homage to the enduring love between a pet and a child and a pet and a family through their stories. Initially, Wu asked him to serve as an advisor on another project, but seeing a lack of potential in the idea, Smetters declined. (Blue Sky Press, 1997. As the months pass, the little girl becomes ready to accept and love a new pet, a puppy, while still remembering Lulu with affection. Janet Wilson's chalk pastels beautifully illustrate a little boy's love for his dog and the whole family's sadness as they say goodbye by giving Jasper a last day filled with his favorite activities. Dog Heaven by Cynthia Rylant, (Star Bright Books, 2008. He responds angrily when a classmate tells him, "It doesn't do any good to be sad." His teacher wisely tells the class that Jim may need to spend some time feeling sad. I want Lulu back the way she used to be." When Lulu dies, the girl is grief-stricken. ISBN: 9780590417013) Ryan McVay/Photodisc/Getty Images Goodbye, Mouseie is an excellent picture book for 3-5-year-olds dealing with the death of a pet. In between is living." The artwork for that text is a full-page painting of a bird's nest with two eggs nestled in it. They may even have experience running their own successful companies. This reassuring story by Robie H. You know that your professors are wise in the ways of business. This picture book is perfect for introducing young children to the concept of death without scaring them. (Ticknor & Fields, 1994. Toby has always been Sara's dog. ISBN: 9780689206887) Jasper's Day, by Marjorie Blain Parker, is a poignant, yet wonderfully comforting, picture book about a beloved dying dog's special day before he is euthanized by the vet. Wu was taking a managerial economics course taught by associate professor Kent Smetters. His friend Annie thinks Barney is in heaven, but the boy and his father aren't sure. It starts, "There is a beginning and ending for everything that is alive. His mother suggests he think of ten good things to remember about Barney.
